Franciska is a member of the Tiara International LLC - Global Leadership Team. She is a systems thinker, both a pragmatic person and idealist. She is an expert in Leadership Development, Personal Strategy, Executive Coaching, Inspiring Women's Leadership, and Leadership Journeys.

"I work with leaders and teams in both profit and not-for-profit organizations. The majority of my clients are mid-level and senior executive academic staff at universities, research organizations and academic hospitals. I particularly work with change agents to produce out of the box results for themselves and their teams. I am committed to quick start and follow through on innovative work and life styles that fit the uniqueness of the individual or team."

What makes her tick is leading a full and authentic life, sourced from inspiration while supporting others in doing the same. With her academic background, calm nature and lightness of being, she easily adds to uncover blind spots and helps to increase flow in people's lives. Keywords to her are: Connection, Inspiration and Impact.

Franciska is a university graduate in agricultural science and has held a variety of positions with FAO in Africa and in the Caribbean, and with Wageningen University and Research Centre in the Netherlands (1985-2002), before changing her career to coaching and leadership development. She traveled extensively, still does, and loves adventures through moving beyond, both physically and metaphysically. In addition to science she is educated in psycho-energetic therapy, communication skills, teamcoaching, inspirational leadership and coaching with horses.
